Washington, Feb. 6 (AP)—President Truman today invoked the Taft-Hartley law in an effort to restore coal production.

He appointed a board of inquiry headed by David L. Cose, Paterson, N. J., lawyer, to look into the issue at dispute. The other members are William W. Wirtz and John Dunlop.

In view of the emergency, the president instructed the board to report "not later" than one week from today.

Could Lead To Court Order

Mr. Truman's move sets in motion T-H law procedures that could lead to a court order a week or 10 days from now for the miners to get back to work for 80 days.

Whether the miners will pay any attention to a "stop-strike" order from the courts—provided one is issued—is a question.

John L. Lewis, the 70-year-old president of the United Mine Workers, told Mr. Truman last week that he doubted they would.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman's order covered only the soft coal industry. He said the three board members had accepted the appointments and would meet in Washington tonight to begin work.

Nearly 400,000 Idle

When the president acted, reports from the coal fields indicated at least 360,000 of the 400,000 soft coal miners were idle.

Coal production was down to the merest trickle. Without it, many industries will have to close soon, throwing thousands out of work. In many cities, coal supplies for home heating are short.

Mr. Truman's order creating the board of inquiry said the dispute between the United Mineworkers and the soft coal industry "has resulted or threatens to result in a strike or lockout affecting a substantial part (Please Turn to Page 2)

EQUITY ACTION HEARD IN COURT

The Adams county court today began hearing testimony in the equity action brought by I. Jacob and Sons, Inc., of Hanover, against William Re, Hanover; Irving Pearlstein, Great Neck, L. I., New York; Sol Lance, Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Cannon Shoe company, of Baltimore.

Involved in the case is the use of the former Cannon shoe company plant at McSherrystown, which the Jacob company claims it had made arrangements to buy before the plant actually was purchased by Pearlstein, Lance and William Re, a vice president of the Jacob company and superintendent of the Hanover shoe plant of H. Jacob and Sons, at the time the sale was made.

Most of the morning session of court was devoted to testimony by Harold O. Tour, New York city, president of H. Jacob and Sons, Inc., and one-time partner of Re before H. Jacob and Sons became incorporated in 1947.

Tour said that the Hanover plant produced stitch-down children's shoes, and that Re, who had been an employee of H. Jacob and Sons, Inc., through various reorganization forms and the like for 34 years, was superintendent of the Hanover plant and a vice president of H. Jacob and Sons, Inc., in its present corporate form and was a partner of H. Jacob and Sons during the period prior to that when it was a company.

The New York man said that he first became interested in the Cannon shoe plant at McSherrystown about a year ago and that he and Re discussed the matter and visited the plant which had been closed by Cannon shoe.

PRIEST LAUDS CONGREGATION FOR "SUPPORT"

St. Francis Xavier Catholic congregation here was congratulated and praised Sunday morning by its pastor, the Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock, for the "excellent support" it gave the church during the past year.

Members of the church gave approximately $28,000 toward its support during the last year, Father Stock said. From that amount approximately $18,000 went toward the regular cost of operation of the church and about $10,000 went into the reserve fund.

Due to a $76,000 backlog that had been built up over the years, plus the continued support of the parishioners, the church has been able to keep all payments on its new school, now being constructed, up to date without borrowing money.

School Population Up

However, the pastor noted, it will eventually be necessary to borrow some money to complete payment of the expected $150,000 cost. The school is scheduled for completion by June and will be in operation next September with the opening of the 1950-51 school year.

The number of children in the school has increased during the last year, the pastor said. There are now 276 students in the local parochial school and 45 in Delone high school. At the time of the annual report in 1949 there were 257 in the local school and 35 at Delone.

Income from card parties held weekly jumped to $5,000 during the past year, Father Stock said, in particular praising the congregation for the support it has given the weekly parties. During the previous year the total income from the parties was $3,000. Due to the increased effort of the parishioners, the card parties are bringing in more than $100 weekly.

The weekly offertory collections totaled approximately $11,000 the pastor said. The church now has approximately 1,000 members and there were more than 30 converts during the past year.

AGED RESIDENT STRUCK BY CAR

George Heyser, 72, a resident of the Adams county home, was injured at 9:45 p. m. Sunday night on West Middle street when he stepped from between two parked automobiles into the side of a car driven by Charles E. Boone of York, according to a borough police report.

Police said he suffered a fractured right leg, lacerations at the left rear part of his head, abrasions of the left shoulder, left hand and left knee and a possible fracture of the skull. He was taken to the Warner hospital.

Heyser had attended services Sunday night at the Four Square Gospel church on West Middle street, and was leaving the church when he started to cross the street. According to the police report, he was brushed by the right front fender and fell, his head striking the right rear fender. Boone was driving east. The latter was not held.

Egg Cooperative To Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Adams County Cooperative Egg association will be held Wednesday, February 15, at 7:30 p. m. in the Gettysburg high school auditorium when annual reports will be presented and four directors will be elected.

The association has 508 members in Adams, Franklin, Cumberland and York counties. The directors whose terms expire are Francis Irvin, Gettysburg R. 3; Edgar Weaver, Gettysburg R. 4; Herman Hege, Chambersburg R. D.; and Carl Black, Gardners.

President S. Willis Musselman, Fairfield, will preside at the business session. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Present 3-Act Play 2 Nights This Week

A three-act play, "No Bride for the Groom," will be presented next Monday and Wednesday evenings in the Mt. Joy parish house, Taneytown road, at 7:30 o'clock. The play is being sponsored by the Mt. Joy Christian Endeavor society.

The cast of characters includes Betty Schwartz as "Bess Selby," Fred Crouse as "Herbert Prindel," Jane Witherow as "Jolly," Mary Louise Shriver as "Sophia Selby," Richard Feliz as "Digby Prindel," Peggy Reed as "Libby Little," John Plank as "Boots," Mildred Schwartz as "Salamandy," Joyce Yingling as "Dot Claiborne," Jay Crouse as "Tom Swanton," Nadine Schwartz as "Prissy Paluna," and Betty Marling as "Belinda Groot."

Accuse Motorist Of Reckless Driving

Borough police Saturday afternoon filed a charge of reckless driving against Donald W. Miller, Gettysburg R. 4, as the result of an accident at 5:25 p. m. on York street. A 10-day notice will be sent by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Police said Miller was traveling west on York street overtaking another vehicle proceeding in the same direction. As he attempted to pass, he saw another car coming from the opposite direction, and applied his brakes. Police said he skidded his car between 20 and 25 feet, into the path of an automobile owned and operated by John B. Orndorff, Gettysburg R. 5, traveling east.

Damage to Orndorff's car was estimated at $150 and to Miller's car at $50.

WILL GIVE PLAY THURSDAY NIGHT AT FAIR GROUNDS

Students in the Upper Adams Joint Junior high school are busily preparing for the presentation of the three-act comedy, "Let Me Grow Up," on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Arendtsville Memorial auditorium at the fair grounds. The cast is under the direction of Miss Eleanor Steele and Mrs. Eugene Haas.

Included in the cast of characters are Melinda Hauser as Lexie, a charming young miss; Patsy Vanaman as Muriel, her talented sister; Douglas Taylor as Matt, her musical brother; Nadine Lady as Nola Fleming, their actress mother; Pauline Slaybaugh as Aunt Lydia, their old maid-aunt; Julianne Coulson as Mary Jo, a young friend; Sarah Rice as Arden, a local boy friend; Gene Motter as Bill Henderson, a soldier, and Jane Longenecker as Mrs. Holden, a producer. In the play, Nola Fleming, actress mother, is selfishly wrapped up in her career. Troubles pile up in the Fleming family when she tries to get a part as a young girl in a movie.

Serving as ushers will be Fern Hartzell, Martha Fassel, Joan Wright, Yvonne Heller, Shirley Pryor and Dorothy Plank. Making up the stage and property committee are Shirley Flickinger, chairwoman; Clarence Chubb, Donald Kline, Bill Jacobs, Lola Ann Hildebrand, Janet Beltman, Betty Starry, Shirley Peters, Terry Lower and Elaine Weaver.

Those in charge of scenery include: Mr. Cover, Theodore Baker, Darby Bender, Lynn Black, Joseph Boyer, Richard Bricker, Eugene Ecker, Robert Gettler, Dale Hollabaugh, Clifford Warner, Jack Hostetter, Dean Orner, Donald Shaeffer, Donald Showers, Fred Starnes, Lowell Starnes, Marshall Tuckey, Joseph Walde and Donald Weaver. Promoters will be Elaine Weaver and Betty Freed. Handling publicity are Martha Fassel, Kay Sheats, Mr. Guider and Miss Trimmer. Fred Pfeiffer will supervise make-up.

HARRY J. MARCH DIES SATURDAY

Doris Jean Hoffman, 15, York Springs Sophomore, Wins Adams County Cherry Pie Baking Title

Doris Jean Hoffman, fifteen-year-old York Springs high school sophomore, was selected as Adams county's champion cherry pie baker at the annual contest held Saturday at Biglerville high school.

Competing against the titlists from five other schools in the county, Miss Hoffman won the right to represent Adams county in the annual contest to determine the champion cherry pie baker of Pennsylvania. She will compete for that title against six other county champions at Waynesboro next Saturday.

Miss Geraldine Mae Caskey, Fairfield R. D., 18-year-old senior at Gettysburg high school, won second honors. The other contestants at Biglerville were: Jean Rinehart, 15, York Springs R. 1, representing York Springs high school; Barbara Newman, 16, Hanover R. 4, New Oxford high champion; Teresa Park, Aspers R. 1, Biglerville high titlist, and Anna Bittie, Littlestown, R. 1, the Littlestown high champion.

Thomas Oyler, secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania Cherry Growers Association, which sponsors the annual cherry pie baking contests in the state, presented Miss Hoffman with flowers.

Harman will conduct annual grid clinic. Harvey J. Harman, head football coach at Rutgers university, will conduct the annual football clinic at Gettysburg college on Saturday, March 25. It was announced today by Prof. C. E. Billheimer, athletic director.

Harman, who formerly coached at the University of Pennsylvania, is a past president of the American Football Coaches association.

Plans ready on Lincoln rites for February 12. Miss Colleen Townsend, Twentieth Century-Fox movie star who is leaving the movies to become a preacher, will deliver Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and lay a wreath on the National monument Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Gettysburg National cemetery.

The official activities in connection with Miss Townsend's visit here will begin with a luncheon at the Hotel Gettysburg at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at which Burgess William G. Weaver will greet the movie star on behalf of the town; Dr. Joseph H. Riley, commander of the local camp of the Sons of Union Veterans, will present greetings from the SUV and John D. Lippy, Jr., president of the Lincoln Fellowship of Pennsylvania, will bring greetings on the part of the Fellowship. Attending the luncheon will be a number of borough officials, Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent (Please Turn to Page 2)

War veteran dies suddenly. J. Robert Becker, 44, died suddenly Saturday at 12:30 p. m. while he was eating lunch at his home, 204 Linden avenue, Hanover. The Adams county coroner, Dr. C. G. Crist, investigated and said death was caused by coronary occlusion.

Mr. Becker, a veteran of World War II, was employed as a clerk and bookkeeper at Crabb's Detective agency, Hanover. He was a member of St. Vincent's Catholic church and was affiliated with Hanover Post No. 2506, VFW, and Hanover Post No. 22, Amvets. He was a son of Mrs. Alice Leonard Becker and the late John L. Becker, Hanover.

Surviving in addition to his mother, are two brothers, Leonard J. Becker, Spring Grove, and Richard A. Becker, Hanover, and a sister, Miss Muriel Becker, Hanover.

Funeral services Tuesday at 8:30 a. m. with brief rites at the William A. Feiser Funeral home, Hanover, followed by a high mass of requiem at 9 o'clock in St. Vincent's Catholic church, Hanover. The Rev. Joseph G. Gotwalt, rector, will be celebrant. Military rites at St. Joseph's cemetery will be in charge of the ceremonial detail of Hanover Post No. 2506, VFW.

FBI Director Tells Probers His Role In Arrest Of Spy

Washington, Feb. 6 (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover gave the Congressional Atomic committee a first hand account today of the FBI's role in the arrest of a top British scientist accused of giving atomic secrets to Russia.

The chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, accompanied by his two top aides, met with the group behind closed doors. He told reporters he did not plan any public statement after the meeting. Before Hoover's testimony, Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) demanded a search in "high places" for any American contacts of the arrested scientist, German born Klaus Fuchs. Fuchs was arrested in London last Friday and charged with two violations of the official secrets act.

Bridges told a reporter FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover will be questioned about that point tomorrow by a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

This group—of which Bridges is a member—already has talked with Hoover about the Fuchs case.

"This man Fuchs," Bridges said, "must have had contacts in this country and we must follow through to find those contacts, particularly to learn whether any of them tie into high places."

A person well acquainted with atomic developments, touching on the same theme, told a reporter that all the evidence thus far presented indicates that a number of other persons may have been involved with the British scientist.

This authority, who insisted on anonymity, said many atomic documents dating back to wartime have been missing for several years.

"Fuchs and others who may have been involved in his case had access to these early plans," he said.

Woman Driver Is Hurt In Accident

Ruth C. Wetzberger, 20, Sioux City, Iowa, suffered a laceration of the upper lip, sprained neck and an abrasion over the right eye Saturday when her automobile and a truck operated by Sterling B. Funt, 31, of Biglerville R. 2, collided near Heidlersburg on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road, state police reported today.

Police said Funt started to make a left turn into a private driveway as the Wetzberger car was about to pass. Miss Wetzberger was treated at the Warner hospital. Damages to her car were estimated at $900, and damages to the truck at $75.

8 DRIVERS ARE FINED; ONE FOR OVERWEIGHT

James A. Golden, Gettysburg R. 5, was fined $20 and costs by Justice of the Peace Leo Storm, Bonneauville, on a reckless driving charge which state police of the Gettysburg substation, who filed it, said included driving too fast, making U-turns, going through stop signs and parking on the highway blocking traffic.

John Perry, Franklinton, N. C., was fined $50 and costs by Justice of the Peace F. E. Coulson, York Springs, on a truck overweight charge.

Martin Boyer, Mt. Holly Springs, charged with making an improper pass, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Warren Dunn, Biglerville.

Others Are Fined

Ralph Weimer, Jr., Johnstown, Pa., was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore for driving through a red light.

Two juveniles arrested by state police were each fined $10 by County Judge W. C. Sheely, one for failing to wear eyeglasses and the other for operating a motorcycle with a defective muffler.

Allen Ward Arthur, Bedford, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace William L. Dentler, Cash-town, for speeding.

Robert Amos, Franklin, Pa., was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace Gerald Orndorff, New Oxford, on a stop sign violation charge.

Here And There News Collected At Random

A NOTABLE BIRTHDAY

America's Boy Scouts and leaders, now numbering 2,300,000 strong, are observing the 40th anniversary of their organization this week February 6 to 12. Scouting has become so woven into the American way of life it is difficult to recall when our nation did not have this character-building, leisure time program for its youth.

Since 1910, more than 16,500,000 American boys and men have had the benefits of the training, fellowship, handicraft skills and high adventure of Scouting. America is all the richer for it. Many men in high places in American affairs today proudly credit Scouting's influence in their lives.

The year-in, year-out civic and emergency service to the nation by Boy Scouts, needs no recital here. Scouting brings to boys at an important time in their lives a program of worthwhile activities, under high grade volunteer leadership.

The need is for more boys to have the advantages of Scout training. Although more than 2,300,000 boys and leaders are now in Scouting, there are thousands of boys still outside the organization. They can get into the fun if more institutions open their doors to them in their own neighborhoods, and if more men (Please Turn to Page 7)

Couple Observes 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Routsong, of South Main street, Benderville, are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today.

They were guests Sunday at a dinner given for them by their daughter, Mrs. R. Caroline Bucher, of Aspers, and their son, J. Clair Routsong, at his home in Gettysburg. They have four grandchildren, Jacqueline and Marilyn Routsong, and Richard and James Bucher. Both are enjoying good health.

ORANGE SOCIAL TONIGHT

The regular meeting of the Ladies Aid society of Grace Lutheran church, Two Taverns, will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the social hall of the church. Following the business meeting an orange social will be held for members and their families. Refreshments will be served.

Good Evening

Miss Hoffman has the perfect answer to the song, "Can She Bake a Cherry Pie, Billy Boy?"

HARRY STONER RE-ELECTED BY FRUIT GROWERS

Discussion of new and effective insecticides, distribution of new spray schedules, election of officers and a dinner for growers by the C. H. Musselman company were features of the annual county-wide, all-day fruit growers' meeting Saturday at Biglerville.

Harry S. Stoner was unanimously re-elected president of the Adams County Fruit Growers association. George Schriver was re-elected vice president. Nelson Weber replaced Fred Griest, Jr., as secretary-treasurer. The nominating committee included Fred Griest, Sr., Harvey Ruffenberger and Stuart Lucabaugh.

Parathion and superior oils were stressed as new and improved insecticides. These represented only part of the improvements and changes included in the spray schedules for peaches, cherries, and apples in 1950. On hand to discuss and explain these new materials and spray schedules were Dr. John O. Pepper, Dr. R. S. Kirby and John U. Reuf, agricultural extension specialists from State College. Also present were Dr. Fred Lewis and Dean Asquith from the fruit research laboratory in Arendtsville.

Rev. Smith Speaks

Dinner was served to the growers by the C. H. Musselman company in the Biglerville plant cafeteria. Serving as waiters were members of the plant's office and supervisory force. The Rev. Nevin R. Smith, pastor of the Emmanuel Reformed church, Hanover, spoke. He was introduced by Frederic Griest, Sr.

President Stoner called the meeting to order at 10 o'clock in the grade school auditorium. Minutes were read by the retiring secretary, Fred Griest, Jr.

Speaking of insecticides Dr. Pepper said: "Superior oils are coming into their own. It is more effective and less injurious and is excellent in the control of red mite in the dormant stage." Dr. Pepper asserted that dormant sprays may be done away with entirely with the initial spray coming in the pre-blossom stage. He said, however, that no definite program is ready yet in this direction.

Discuss Parathion

Much attention was given to the new spray material, parathion. This insecticide, while very effective in the control of several pests, is highly toxic and deadly to human beings. It is poisonous if swallowed, inhaled, or absorbed through the skin, the growers were told. These precautions were recommended in handling parathion: Use care in opening bags; use rubber gloves and gas mask; beware of parathion dust; prepare slurry with water; use care in dumping slurry; change respirator filter often; use correct gear to insure safety; destroy containers, and clean respirator.

Dr. Kirby, speaking of fungicides, explained there are two types, protectants and eradicants. Both, he said, have advantages and disadvantages. Referring to scab, Dr. Kirby said that scab and leaf curl indicate the amount and concentration of the fungicide to be used in the spray. Careful timing helps to eliminate the countless spores that spread the scab disease. A crucial time for scab is the pre-blossom stage, he said. A strong material used early is effective since the green leaf foliage affords good coverage. Dr. Kirby explained.

Dr. Kirby recommended the early use of ferimate to combat red cedar rust and bitter rot but said 34IG should not be used on Golden Delicious apples. Ferimate should be used on the first cover, he added.

Share Polio Donations

More Adams countians donated to the 1950 polio March of Dimes than ever before, according to Mrs. Joseph E. Codori, chairman.

The spirit was far-reaching, she said, as is evidenced in the following communication she received today:

"The attached check is a donation from the Paradise Union Sunday school for the March of Dimes campaign.

"Although the Paradise Union Sunday school is approximately three miles from the Adams county line we felt that some of our members living in East Berlin, Abbotstown and adjacent rural district would like to be represented in their county, and it was decided to give 25 per cent of the total offering, which was the regular Sunday school offering, to the Adams county chapter, which amounted to $21.09.

"I would very much appreciate an acknowledgment of some form or other, so that I might read it to the Sunday school.

"C. Curvin Baker, Box 6, East Berlin, Pa., superintendent."

FATHERS AND SONS WILL DINE

The annual Fathers and Sons' community banquet will be held February 16 in the Bendersville community hall, the committee in charge decided at a meeting Sunday afternoon at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Richard H. L. Vanaman.

A roast beef supper will be served. The entertainment will include a movie.

Co-chairmen in charge of the banquet are William Decker and Fremont Kuntz.

Other committees include: Program, publicity and finance: Rev. Dr. O. D. Coble and Rev. Vanaman; cooks, Melvin Bean, chef, Leslie Keller, Dale Crum, Ryland Garretson, Mervin Showers, Russell Weener and Charles Bretman; dish washers, Melvin Emler, head dishwasher, Lloyd Brem, Clyde McCauslin, Robert Darone, Harold Peters, Luther Horick and John Pitzer; waiters, Roger Hoffnagle, head waiter, Marvin Kime, Owen Coble, Richard Pitzer, Glenwood Hennessey, Terry Hutton, Marshall Kuntz, Paul Peters, Aldis Gouchenauer and Jack Howe. Purchasing will be handled by Richard Hutton.

"Hour Of Sharing" Is Planned For Churches

Local Protestant churches will take part in a nation-wide relief appeal embracing over 100,000 congregations of 19 major religious bodies, Miss Alma M. Miller, Bendersville, secretary of the Adams County Sunday School association, announced today. The campaign, called "One Great Hour of Sharing," will culminate on Sunday, March 2, when the participating churches will take up offerings for their work with displaced persons, refugees and general relief needs in Asia, the Middle East and Europe.

An extensive national organization for the promotion of the united appeal includes both church representatives and outstanding leaders from all over the country. Harper Sibley, prominent business man and church leader, has accepted the position of national chairman of the campaign, which will be conducted by Church World Services Inc., of which he is president.

The relief appeal, which is using all means of mass communications is being sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, the American Committee of the World Council of Churches, the United Council of Church Women, the United Christian Youth Movement, the United Stewardship Council and the United Church Canvass.

Conewago Deanery To Meet Sunday

St. Aloysius Parish Council of Catholic Women will be hostess to the quarterly meeting of the Conewago Deanery Council of Catholic Women on Sunday afternoon, February 12. The board meeting will be held at 1:15 p. m. and the open meeting at 2:30 p. m. All women of the parishes of the Deanery are invited. Parishes to be represented are: St. Joseph's, Bonneauville; St. Ignatius, Buchanan Valley; St. Rita, Blue Ridge Summit; Corpus Christi, Chambersburg; Sacred Heart, Conewago; St. Mary's of the Immaculate Conception, Fairfield; St. Francis Xavier, Gettysburg; Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, McSherrytown; St. Mary's of the Immaculate Conception, New Oxford; St. Andrew's, Waynesboro; and the hostess council.

Jesse Crabbs, Jr., Hanover, a former assistant district attorney, York county, will be the speaker. Miss Marie Budde, assistant professor of music, Hood college, will sing. Recordings will be played explaining the "Holy Year." Other entertainment is being arranged by the hostess council. February is Catholic Press month and there will be a literature display at the meeting.

The reception committee for the local council consists of Mrs. J. Harold Redding, Mrs. Frank Clinigan and Mrs. Bernard Selby.

Arendtsville P.T. Meets On Wednesday

The Arendtsville Parent-Teachers Association will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Arendtsville grade school auditorium. Lewis Boserman, principal of the school, announced today.

A program having as its theme the birthdays of Presidents Washington and Lincoln will be presented by the students of the fourth grade under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Price and Mrs. Madeline Ehlman.

Following the program the parents will assemble in the school cafeteria where Thomas E. Robertson, Harrisburg, head of the Pennsylvania Motor Truckers Association, will lead a discussion on "Parent-pupil Relationships."

While the PTA members are meeting, the school children will be shown movies in the auditorium.

Taft-Hartley

of the bituminous coal industry," and that the "strike or lockout, if permitted to occur or to continue, will imperil the national health and safety."

Paid Fines Before

Once the board reports, the president can ask the attorney general to go to a Federal court and seek an 80-day injunction against a further strike. If the miners should not obey it, the government might seek penalties for contempt of court.

In 1946 a court slapped the miners socially. In 1948, in another contempt and Lewis with a $10,000 one personally. In 1948, in another contempt case, those fines were doubled—$1,400,000 on the union and $20,000 on Lewis.

Lewis' suggestion that the miners might not pay any attention to a "stop strike" order was on Saturday when he turned down Mr. Truman's proposal for a 70-day strike truce while a fact-finding board, appointed outside the labor-hated Taft-Hartley act, looked into the dispute that has plagued coal production for eight months.

Had Little Choice

Lewis said the miners did not want "three strangers"—meaning the board Mr. Truman proposed to appoint—settling their economic problems. The UMW chief's attitude left the President little choice except to turn to the labor-hated Taft-Hartley act which his administration is pledged to repeal.

Mr. Truman's action points to some climax soon in the struggle that has gone on between Lewis and his miners, on the one hand, and the coal interests on the other since last June when the old mining contract expired. The stakes are tremendous and touch thousands besides the principals.

For Lewis, a big point is whether he can get 15 cents a ton additional "royalty" for his miners' welfare fund. Under the old contract, the royalty has been 20 cents. But the millions it produced have not been enough to finance the benefits Lewis has handed out to aged and injured miners. Lewis must get more money or cut down the benefits.

Future At Stake

Lewis' other main demand is for 95 cents a day wage rise for the miners whose basic daily wage is now $14.05.

The operators contend that coal cannot stand a price hike—that it is already in a precarious competitive situation due to increasing use of gas and oil as substitutes.

On the outcome of the struggle may hinge, also, the future course of labor law in this country.

of the local National park, and members of the committee.

Parade To Cemetery

At 2:15 o'clock the Blue and Gray band of Gettysburg, accompanied by the color guards and firing squads of the local American Legion and VFW will march to the square where they will meet the cars transporting Miss Townsend, the committee and others to the cemetery.

The group will then parade on Baltimore street to the cemetery where services arranged by the local Sons of Union Veterans will be held at the National monument, the site where Lincoln delivered the Gettysburg address.

The service, honoring the birthday of President Lincoln, will open with "America" played by the band. Following an invocation by the Rev. Dr. Howard S. Fox, the band will play another number after which Miss Townsend will deliver the address. She will then place a wreath on the monument while the band plays a dirge.

To Tour Field

Dr. Coleman will deliver a eulogy to President Lincoln. Benediction, to which the public is invited.

Following the service there, Dr. and Mrs. Coleman will escort Miss Townsend and her party on a tour of the Gettysburg battlefield.

Sunday evening Miss Townsend, whose latest picture concerns World War II, will be guest at receptions to be held by the American Legion and VFW Sunday night.

Seminary Grad Is Installed Sunday

The Rev. John S. Bishop, pastor of the Mt. Zion Lutheran church at Goldsboro for the past 18 years, was installed Sunday morning as pastor of Salem Lutheran church, Oberlin. The Rev. George H. Berkheimer, secretary of the Central Pennsylvania Synod, officiated at the installation ceremony.

BULLET SOPHS HAND DIPLOMAT CAGERS DEFEAT

Gettysburg college's basketball team broke a two-game losing streak by whipping a weak Franklin and Marshall college, 55-32, before 500 at Lancaster Saturday night.

Coach "Hen" Bream shifted his starting line-up either in order to give the varsity a rest or to show them that they had more competition for the varsity posts than they had realized. The five starting sophomores and one replacement gave a good exhibition once they overcame the nervousness of starting a game.

Tom Ketterman, who has seen action in most of the games this year, gave promise of developing into top performer as he sank seven field goals in 15 tries and added a foul for 15 points.

Tie At Quarter

Ketterman got the Bullets away to a fast start when he sank a long let shot and another from the side. A foul by F. and M.'s Curt Gallagher and field goals by Bob Hartman and Bob Zink put the Dips ahead, 5-4. The Bullets' John Clark and Zink traded buckets. A foul by Mike Resanovich was followed by Hartman's let shot to put F. and M. ahead, 11-9. After Resanovich and Hartman traded field goals, two long set shots by Ketterman and Hartman's lay-up made the score 13-13 at the quarter.

Bohee put the Dips ahead with a set shot. Watson sank a field goal, and Ketterman threw in two more to give the Bullets a 19-15 lead. After Gallagher tossed in a lay-up, Mahon and Resanovich added field goals, and Watson two fouls. Hartman's charity toss ended the first half at 28-18.

Gettysburg's sophomores found their stride in the third quarter and ran the score to 38-22 before Hen Bream inserted his "regulars" into the rout. A run of 13 straight points featured the sport.

Paced by Harry Pure, the Bullets increased the lead to 55-32 by the end of the game. For a better part of its 12 minutes of action, the team was content to sharpen its passing attack for the big home games this week — Dickinson on Wednesday night and Penn State Friday night.

Coach Bream discovered on Saturday night that his sophomore combination of Watson, Ketterman, Clark, Resanovich, Hare and Mahon might be the backbone of a better-than-average club next year. Lacking only experience, these sophomores, plus Eugene Coder, Bob O'Brien, Hank Belber and newcomers from the freshman club, should provide a lot more interesting ball next basketball season than was generally expected.

Fresh Beaten
In the preliminary game, the F. and M. freshmen showed a good passing attack to down John Yovisich's neophytes, 49-36.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 6 (AP)—Floyd O. Smith, a precise, softspoken little man from Hilo, Ill., is a schedule-maker by avocation and about two dozen baseball leagues would have a heck of a time getting along without him. "I've been making schedules since I was in high school," he explains. "The old Central Association needed one and I thought I could do it, so I tried. They didn't adopt mine, but they gave me honorable mention." I sold my first to the Three-I league in 1923 and since then they haven't played a date without me. "It's a bigger problem than it appears, what with considering special dates, travel mileage and the conflicting desires of hard-boiled club owners, but Smith always manages to come up with something acceptable. "My system? I just take a blank box-schedule and sort of visualize it," he says. "If you have that kind of vision, it's not a crowded profession."

PLAYING HIM LOOSELY

Shag Shaughnessy, the International League president, agreed with Johnny Mize's recent advice to hitters: "Hold your bat so loose it almost falls out of your hands. Then you won't go after bad pitches." Mmmmm says Shag: "Larry Lajoie used to hold his bat that way; he'd often hold it in one hand. If you pitched to him outside, he's belt it into left field; if you threw inside, he'd knock it over the right field fence. . . . but I saw Jack Coombs stop him once. . . . Coombs told me, 'Go straight out in center as far as you can and I'll make him hit to you.' . . . I backed up almost to the wall and Coombs threw nothing but straight ones down the middle. Lajoie went to bat four times and hit four line drives right into my hands."

MONDAY MATINEE

The Delaware Park Racing Association was the first $1,000 buyer of a box in the new U. of Delaware football stadium. . . . Mel Cratsley, coach of Carnegie Tech's best basketball team in years, is a graduate student at Carnegie, taking work in mechanical engineering to earn a teacher's certificate.

RUTH GREATEST BALL PLAYER IN 50 YEARS

By GAYLE TALBOT

Rye, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP)—It isn't quite true that Babe Ruth never made a bad play on the baseball field. He made at least one, and it was a beauty.

This is on the distinguished authority of Edward G. Barrow, the old stalwart who bossed the immortal bambino through almost all his great career with the Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees. "He might have made others that I didn't see," mused Barrow, "but I can recall only the one time that I felt like killing him."

Ty Cobb Second

"That was when he tried to steal second with two out in the ninth inning of the final game of the 1927 world series. Catcher Bob O'Farrell nailed him easily, and the St. Louis Cardinals won the series, 4 games to 3."

Now living in retirement in this quiet suburb of New York city as he nears his 83rd birthday, Barrow owns many a recollection of the big, rollicking home run hitter who was voted the greatest ball player of the past 50 years in a nationwide poll conducted by The Associated Press.

Great as is his admiration for Ruth, though, he expressed mild surprise that the Babe's margin over his closest rival, Ty Cobb, had been as great as it was—253 votes to 116. Lou Gehrig, another of Barrow's stars, placed a distant third with 8 votes.

"I wouldn't like to have to make a decision between the Babe and Ty," Barrow said softly, his mind obviously traveling back through the years when Ruth and the "Georgia Peach" were racking up the records which stamped them supreme in baseball.

"As an all-around player," he continued, "I suppose the Babe deserves the honor. You've got to remember that, before I turned him into an outfielder at Boston, he was as great a pitcher as there was in the game. Maybe he was the greatest."

"He had everything, including tremendous speed and wonderful control for a lefthander. His record of pitching 29 straight scoreless innings in world series play still stands, you know. He was as graceful on the mound as he was in everything else he did."

Barrow doesn't pretend to know the "secret" of the Babe's phenomenal hitting power, the cohesion of eye and muscle which enabled him to blast 714 home runs in 22 big league seasons and establish a score of distance batting records which probably never will be equalled.

YORK CATHOLIC UPSETS DELONE

Delone Catholic high dropped a 43-37 decision to the York Catholic high cagers Sunday afternoon on the latter's floor in a Central Pennsylvania league game.

The Squires trailed throughout but kept within striking distance the whole way.

In the preliminary game the Delone reserves triumphed 26-18.

Delone will clash with an alumni team Tuesday evening.

HERSHEY HIGH HERE TUESDAY

Their second half title hopes in the South Penn Basketball league rudely joined at Carlisle last Thursday evening, the Gettysburg high dribblers return to their own court Tuesday evening to meet Hershey high.

Earlier in the season the Warriors upset Hershey on the latter's court 42-35. The Forney-men had to be at their best to turn the trick and cannot afford any letup here on Tuesday.

In Don Grider, center, the Trojans have the third high scorer of the league. Hershey has been blowing hot and cold all season and if it has an "on" night Tuesday, the locals will be in for a busy evening.

The jayvees, winners of six games in 15 starts, will be out to avenge a 28-21 defeat received at Hershey in the preliminary game at 6:45.

Other games listed for Tuesday in the league include: Waynesboro at Chambersburg, Carlisle at Hanover, and Shippensburg at Mechanicsburg.

G-BURG MATMEN DEFEAT TEMPLE FOR SIXTH WIN

Gettysburg college's powerful wrestling team won its fifth straight victory and sixth decision in seven starts Saturday by defeating Temple university at Philadelphia 24-6.

Three falls were recorded in the meet, all being won by Coach Clyde Cole's outfit. Dick Sassman, 145; Lonce Soult, 165, and Clarence Diehl, 175, each tossed their opponents.

Russ Riegel, 155, the Bullets' unbeaten ace, kept his victory string intact by gaining a 7-0 decision over Sprows.

Other victors for Gettysburg were Johnny Loose, 121, and Johnny Hershberger, heavyweight, both of whom won by decisions.

On Wednesday the Bullets face their stiffest assignment of the campaign when they meet always-powerful Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster. The freshman teams will meet in a preliminary affair.

The summaries:
121-pound—Loose, Gettysburg, won decision over Gordon, 6-3.

128-pound—Glossner, Temple, won decision over Andrews, 10-8.

136-pounds—Dunn, Temple, won decision over Woods, 6-3.

Suspended Miner Appeals His Case

Liberty, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP)—The coal miner who was handed a six-month suspension by his United Mine Workers local for calling John L. Lewis a dictator has appeared to the executive board of UMW District Five.

Joseph Dickmon was suspended by Local 73 Saturday on the grounds that he violated the union's constitution. Section three, article 18 of that document prohibits members from making false statements about officials of the union.

Dickmon, who scored Lewis in a letter to the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, filed his appeal yesterday with the aid of Attorney P. K. Jones of New Kensington.

Jones volunteered to take Dickmon's case after the miner's letter was publicized. In his appeal, Dickmon asserted: "I have made no false statements against any officer of the union."

HOLD MAN FOR SLAYING NURSE

Las Vegas, Nev., Feb. 6 (AP)—A man who told police he was born in Johnstown, Pa., is held today on suspicion of murder in the fater shooting of a nurse at the Clark County General hospital.

The nurse, Margaret Gabler, was found shot to death last night in a utility room at the hospital. Police said Robert Francis Costow, 23, was standing over her with a .32 caliber revolver in his hand.

Authorities said Mrs. Gabler was a native of Ridgeway, Pa. An Army nurse during World War II, she married Charles H. Gabler two years ago in Las Vegas.

Mrs. Gabler, who died instantly of three bullet wounds, was discovered by Sheriff's Capt. Roy Trahan and Deputy Bob Owens. They were at the hospital in connection with a highway accident and ran to the utility room when they heard shots.

Trahan and Owens said a cab driver, Bob Clark, told them Mrs. Gabler was estranged from her husband and that she and Costlow had been going around together for some time. Costlow and Mrs. Gabler lived at the same auto court, the cab driver was quoted as saying.

Another nurse, Virginia Jolley, said Costlow came to the hospital, talked with Mrs. Gabler and went with her to the utility room. A short time later, Miss Jolley said, she heard Mrs. Gabler scream "Oh, Bob, oh, Bob," and then there were shots.

Plank Road Meeting: At a meeting of citizens of Gettysburg, held at the Court-house on Monday, Feb. 4th, to consult upon the propriety of constructing a Plank Road between York and Gettysburg—Gen. David Middlecoff was called to the chair; Thomas Warren and A. B. Kurtz, Esqs., were appointed Vice Presidents; and Alexander R. Stevenson, Secretary.

The object of the meeting was stated by D. A. Buehler, Esq. Whereupon, on motion, it was Resolved, That a committee of nine persons be appointed, collect and report information as to construction, cost, &amp;c., of plank roads; also to correspond with the citizens of York, upon the subject of the proposed road; and to prepare and circulate petitions to the Legislature, asking for a charter.

Dr. F. E. Vandersloot, George Shryock, Samuel Miller, D. A. Buehler, John L. Tate, Moses McClean, James Piercy, David Ziegler and Jas. F. Fahnestock, composed said committee, with power to add to their number.

The following named gentlemen were subsequently added to the above Committee—A. R. Stevenson, Esq., Robert Smith, Geo. Swope, Peter Weikert, D. McConaughy, Esq., A. B. Kurtz, Thomas Warren, J. B. M'Pherson and S. Fahnestock.

Married: On the 3d inst., by the Rev. Mr. Lohr, Mr. Jacob Pleser, to Miss Matilda, daughter of Mr. George Diehl—both of near New Oxford.

On the 5th inst., at Conowago Chapel, by the Rev. Mr. DeNecker, Mr. James Pink, of Hunterstown, to Miss Joanna McLain, of Irishtown.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EVERY DAY A SURPRISE

What keeps youth within our veins is an alive and powerful enthusiasm. If we would only think of life as running on, instead of running out, we would be so much happier, and take hold on the things at hand with greater zest and unalloyed joy.

Every day can be a surprise! Thoreau has said that "the voice of nature is always encouraging." There is cheer in the snowflake, in the wind, and the raindrop. Every inhabitant in nature goes about his work and minds his own business. He does his job, and then either takes to play, or in the case of a bird, gives a concert.

How delightful is that companion who keeps calling our attention to things that we don't see! Surprises are always about us, if we are in the mood for discovery. This week a friend, who lives a thousand miles from me was in town and called me up. I told him to come at once to my office. He apologized for taking up my time. He said: "You are a busy man," but I replied that I was never too busy to see a friend, for the gaining and holding of a friend is the best business on the earth!

An unexpected letter, or the visit of an unexpected friend, is something to cherish as an event—a surprise that warms the heart.

I always look forward to the coming of the springtime, for there are so many surprises to it. No matter how many have been mine, I know I will see new surprises that will thrill me. I have been studying more about birds, and now that I have the habits and calls more firmly in my mind, I look forward to greater surprises as I meet and identify them.

I have as a friend and neighbor the famous John Kieran, whose knowledge and enthusiasm for everything in the out-of-doors are a constant inspiration. He has presented me with many a book that has enriched his fertile mind, and his own book, "Footnotes to Nature," has been the means to many a thrill. Every day holds the possibility of a surprise.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Art and Life."

THE RIGHT ANSWER

Whenever the wife looks round about And sees another woman stout, Then asks: "My dear, am I that fat?"

There's but one way to answer that. Let truth and candor be forgot; At once reply: "Of course you're not."

Be wise and do not hesitate; Don't pause to ponder size or weight. Don't say: "I think you are, my dear."

That isn't what she wants to hear. If still at peace you wish to live, "No" is the safe reply to give.

We're taught the truth is better far Than all the pleasing falsehoods are. But asked—and surely you will be—"My dear, am I as fat as she?"

Take one quick look, and on the spot Reply with: "Absolutely not."

OPEN NEW LAB
Schuykill Haven, Pa., Feb. 6 (P)—The newest anthracite laboratory in the United States—built at a cost of $450,000—opens here today. A staff of 20 people, headed by J. R. Bush, of Wilkes-Barre, is to take over operation of the U. S. Bureau of Mines unit. In full operation it will employ 50 people, but hard coal experiments are not expected to begin until summer. The lab will be officially dedicated in 1951.PHONE STRIKE
THREAT REACHES
CRUCIAL STAGE

New York, Feb. 6 (P)—Federal mediation efforts to prevent a nationwide telephone strike reached a crucial stage today with the deadline less than 48 hours away.

Company and CIO union representatives resume their talks with the help of the mediators after a Sunday recess.

Cyrus S. Ching, head of the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation service, said his staff would be able to tell by this afternoon "whether we are getting anywhere."

Set for Wednesday
A union attorney said on the eve of today's meeting that "at the moment there is no indication of any change in the . . . situation."

The meeting was between representatives of the Western Electric company, manufacturing and installing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the CIO Communications Workers of America.

A strike is threatened for 6 a. m. Wednesday in a dispute over wages, hours, vacations, pensions, training periods and other issues.

Ching will confer here this afternoon with his chief aides on the progress of negotiations, it was announced last night by William N. Margolis, assistant director of the mediation service.

Consider Truce Request
In Washington, the government was reported considering a request for a truce to avoid a strike. A top government official said the union may be asked to delay strike action if no substantial progress toward settlement of the dispute is reported shortly. He said the request, if made, would seek a truce of at least two weeks.

The strike threat against A. T. and T. and the Bell system directly involves 100,000 employees of the Western Electric company and five other A. T. and T. subsidiaries. The union, however, expects 220,000 other members to refuse to cross picket lines. The result would be a nationwide strike, Union President Joseph A. Beirne says.

A company spokesman said last night a strike would be "completely unjustified" in view of the prevailing pay scales and benefits. Figures of the U. S. Bureau of Labor statistics, the company declared, show telephone workers get an average of $70.30 a week and rank ninth in a list of 200 industries.

The miners—UMW miners—will work no more than three days this week, under the present John L. Lewis directive. They may not work tomorrow, but this depends on the action taken by their leaders at the New York negotiating session today.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 6 (P)—Pennsylvania's 80,000 hard coal miners were on the job today.

By going to work today, the United Mine Workers men put off at least until tomorrow an expected showdown with independent anthracite miners in the eastern Pennsylvania fields.

County Weekly Farm And Garden Section

Slow Growing Vegetables
Need Early Start Indoors

Whether to sow seeds of vegetables direct in the garden, or set out plants may puzzle beginning gardeners.

Most of them decide it by sowing direct varieties which are hardy, grow rapidly, and mature early, while they set out plants of tender varieties, which mature slowly and could not be sown directly outdoors until danger of frost is over.

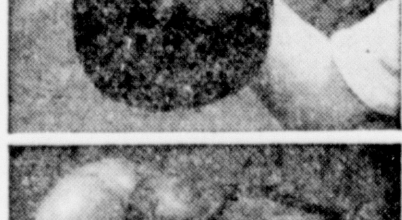

Tomatoes, peppers and eggplant are given an early start, under protection, over most of the country, so that their harvest may begin weeks earlier than would be possible with seed sown directly outdoors. Cauliflower, which must mature before hot-weather, is also started in this way, as well as early cabbage, broccoli, and frequently kohlrabi. For late harvests, however, all these are sown in the garden.

For most other vegetables, little is gained by setting out plants, except in cases where it might be difficult to start seedlings. This may be true in localities of heavy soil and low rainfall, and in all sections during hot weather.

There are handicaps in transplanting, which should be considered. Whenever a plant is moved from one location to another, it suffers a shock, and growth stands still until it recovers, and adjusts itself to the new location. A certain percentage of loss may be expected, and unless transplanting conditions are favorable, and handling skillful, the gain in the harvest may be less than was expected. Many market gardeners find that late tomatoes grown from seed sown in the garden, and never moved, will grow faster and more vigorously than plants which are started under protection, and set out in the garden. While the transplants usually bear first, the direct seeded plants are often not many days behind.

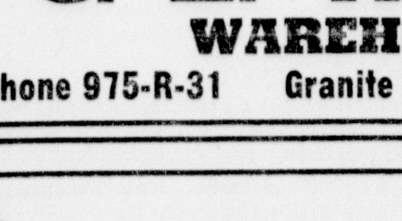

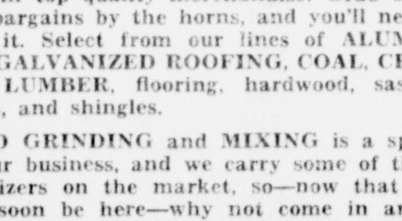

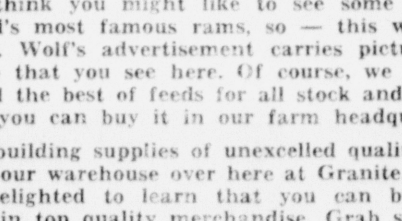

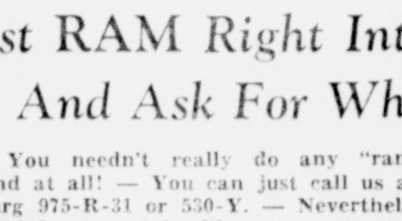

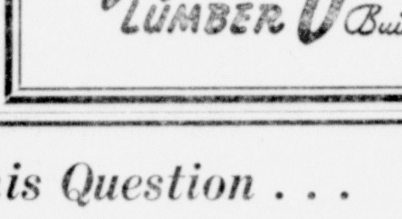

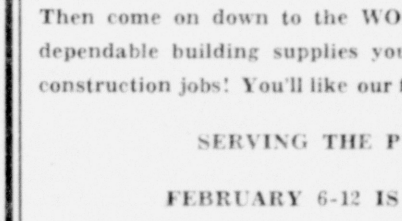

But for early tomatoes, cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower, and for such slow maturing plants as pepper and eggplant, most amateurs will find it wise to start their plants under protection, and move them carefully to the garden when it is safe, in order that the harvest of garden-fresh food may begin a few weeks earlier.

Bunches of grapes are borne on new shoots which . . . buds on the dormant vine. Each in a closer study of the plant's habit. Bunches of grapes are borne on new shoots which . . . buds on the dormant vine. Each shoot becomes a cane the following year. In as much as each cane contains from a dozen to a score or more of buds and each vine contains numerous canes, the annual operation known as pruning is actually a means of cutting out most of the canes and reducing the number of buds on remaining canes so there will be a proper balance of foliage and fruit.

On this point it is important to observe that an unpruned grape vine, as already mentioned, produces from its numerous buds on all its canes a mass of foliage—a leafy shoot from each bud. Then again, each shoot becomes another cane at the end of another year, with the interlacing maze of canes and arms and shoots exhausting the plant in maintaining the amazing amount of foliage. There is little or no nourishment left for producing fruit.

An average grape vine, one from four to 10 or 20 years of age or older, should have its canes reduced to four or five, with all other canes cut away. The remaining canes should be cut back so the vines has no more than 48 to 60 buds as its total for the approaching growing season, with the larger number on the more vigorous vine.

If vines are trained to a two-wire trellis or similar vertical support, the pruned canes may be trained in one of several methods. In most cases under such training systems the old base or trunk need be no higher than two to four feet, with the remaining canes selected from near the base top.

If vines are trained on overhead arbors or against walls, where a greater spread is desired, arms (canes two years old or older) may be left for the express purpose of "placing" the canes. Arms produce no buds, hence they do not add to the plant's foliage burden.

Next to methods of pruning and the urgency of pruning annually is the importance of pruning in late January or early February. If this operation is postponed until sap begins to rise, severe "bleeding" may occur. And while many growers believe that such losses of sap do not weaken the vines, yet reason suggests that the avoidance of the loss would at least prove desirable. Therefore, all grape vines should be pruned within the next week to 10 days.

Dormant Spraying Guide

Owners of a few backyard fruit trees or owners of scale-infested ornamental shrubs or shade trees often neglect late winter control opportunities—the only time of the year when the San Jose scale can be killed. Simple instructions for applying dormant sprays for scale control are included in our dormant spraying guide. Merely send a self-addressed stamped envelope or a 3-cent stamp for a free copy. But be certain to include any questions you wish to ask on this and all other lawn, garden, orchard and farm subjects.

Chapter 20

Zachary was in a tight spot now, and he knew it. This thing hadn't worked out as he had planned or hoped, though that, he reflected angrily, was the fault of the Indians themselves. It had been his suggestion that a score of young bucks, thirsting for action and the forbidden scalp of a white man, be sent upon this mission. With a score of such watchdogs, he had been confident that Valse could never get to the gun to try to kill him. Likewise, Valse would not suspect such a trap until he had been caught in it.

But though he, Zachary, was a member in good standing of the Wazzazi, the decision had been against any such foray as he had proposed. He knew why, well enough. Chief White Bear, father of Lone Buffalo and Far Runner, had no love for the whites, but he was a shrewd and crafty old warrior. If a score of young bucks were once turned loose with his sanction, they would probably go too far, take more than one scalp, and start all sorts of trouble. Since that was what Zachary did not want, it would not be the way to do it.

Lone Buffalo, being Zachary's own blood-brother by ancient ceremony, had declared that he would do the job himself, and with that Zachary had had to be content. And now the Indians, some of whom had apparently come to regret their once impulsive gesture of adopting him into the tribe, believed that he had tricked them. They knew him for a renegade white, and were now ready to suspect him of being a renegade Indian as well!

Well, let them! Zachary drew a long breath. Trouble from two sides—more trouble than one man could handle. But there might be a way to let this trouble clash head on. And when it was over, he would be in a position to profit.

That was it! His mind sped ahead to the necessary details and each piece of the pattern seemed ready-made, falling readily into place.

"Listen, Far Runner!" he said impressively, "there has been a mistake. And Lone Buffalo is dead, and his heart is sore, because Lone Buffalo was my brother. But the mistake was Lone Buffalo's. The man that he killed had white hair, but it was not the man that I told him of. This other white-haired man is dead, and the white people are as angry as are your people. Lone Buffalo is dead, and he cannot be brought back to life, either. All because he was too eager, and made a mistake—such a mistake as I did not think that he, a seasoned warrior, would ever make."

Far Runner nodded soberly.

"I understand," he agreed, "but the thing is bad."

"It is very bad," Zachary conceded, and eyed him sharply. "Tell me, just what is the feeling of your people?"

"My people cry aloud for vengeance! For blood to atone for the blood which has been shed!"

"But there is peace between the red men and the white," he reminded the brave. "And as I have said, this has all been a mistake—a mistake made by Lone Buffalo, which cannot now be helped. But the white people do not desire war, nor that the innocent should be punished for a mistake. I have sat in their councils today, since this news came. They are angry at the killing of a white man, but they too know now that it was a mistake, and they are sorry for the killing of Lone Buffalo. It is the wish of everyone that this thing shall be forgotten, that it shall go no farther."

Far Runner listened gravely. This, he knew, was the news that White Bear wanted; that the whole thing was a mistake, and so there would be no war forced upon the red men for the killing of a white man.

Watching him, Zachary knew that the Indians were not yet ripe for war. It would have to be handled carefully.

"There is a gift for White Bear, your father, and for Young Willow, the mother of Lone Buffalo," Zachary went on. "You will take these gifts back to them, with the word that it was all a mistake, and as a token that the whites are as sorry that it happened as you are."

Far Runner nodded soberly. If gifts were given, that was a good sign, and he knew that his father would be more than glad to accept them in the same spirit.

"It is good," he agreed. "Forgive me, my brother, if I have spoken bluntly the thoughts that were in the hearts of my people. It is better to speak freely, that there can be no misunderstanding." But I know that you were blood-brother of my brother, that you are one of us, though your skin is white, and that your heart, like mine, is sore. As Lone Buffalo was my brother, and you were his, so now you are my brother."

"That is a handsome speech, my brother," Zachary agreed. His face did not betray any of the scheme which he had in mind now, though again, for just a moment, he felt the old, bitter self-contempt.

"Come with me," he instructed. "We will go and get the presents now, and you can return with them and the word of peace!"

Chapter 21

The weed-screened shed was remote, ideally suited to intrigue. Yet it was close to the few business buildings which now went to make up the town. A scant stone's throw away was the unprepossessing rear door of the Philadelphia Store.

There was little which was impressive about it except its name. As his own business had gone from bad to worse, so, too, had Sam Underhill. He found it convenient to slip out of the back door of his own establishment and down to the other saloon. Since customers were a rarity, it made little difference that he was absent for increasingly long periods of time.

This was in Zachary's mind now, as he talked to Far Runner and kept an observant eye on the rear door of the Philadelphia store at the same time.

He saw Underhill slip out at the rear door while they talked, and head for the back door of the saloon. Since this was a regular habit at this time, he knew with reasonable certainty that Underhill would stay there for the better part of an hour before returning to see if any business had happened to stray his way.

Zachary led Far Runner straight to that rear door, keeping a sharp watch as he went. Inside the store, Zachary paused for a moment to accustom his eyes to the gloom of the place. Not far off hung several blankets, a few of them gaudy ones. As he lifted one down, Zachary saw Far Runner's eyes light up.

"For the chief, your father," Zachary said, and laid it in Far Runner's arms.

He lifted down a second blanket, even more gaudy as to hues, and handed it across.

"For the mother of Lone Buffalo, that the hurt in her heart may the sooner be healed."

That was all that he had promised, but Zachary mumbled back, lifting down a third blanket. He might as well be generous, since this wasn't costing him anything.

"This is for you, Far Runner," he said, "since Lone Buffalo was your brother, as well as mine."

Far Runner's eyes gleamed with pleasure. Here was proof that the white men wanted peace.

"Return with these, and the word that I have given you," Zachary went on. "And later, when you and your people come here to trade, there will be other gifts as well."

That was a crowning touch. An invitation to come and trade seemed a sure sign that the killing of a white man was to be forgiven, counseled. "Stop to talk to no one until you have explained to your own people. It will be better so."

"I will go as you say, my brother," Far Runner agreed. "You have given me proof that your heart is right."

Just emerging from the rear door of the saloon "Ah, here you are, Sam," he exclaimed. "I was just looking for you. Quick, man! You've been robbed!"

"Robbed?" Underhill straightened. A little of the glaze left his eyes, some of the raw-boned strength of earlier years of hard work showed through the flabbiness of the later ones. "What do you mean?"

"Just what I say," Zachary snapped. "I saw an Indian slipping out the back door of your place, a little while ago. He had helped himself to an armful of blankets—some of your best ones."

It was having exactly the effect that Zachary had counted on. "A dirty Injun, eh?" he growled. "Where'd he go? I'll sure get 'em back—or kill him!"

"Don't blame you a bit," Zachary agreed. "There he goes now, way off there. You'll have to hurry!"

"Watch me!" Underhill promised grimly. Zachary had chosen his man well.

Forgetting all about a word of thanks, Underhill darted into his own store, coming out a moment later with a rifle in hand. He looked about, and saw several horses not far off, saddled, standing with crooping heads by hitchrails. His glance ranged them, picking out an animal which he knew possessed speed. Not bothering with the formality of finding the owner or explaining his need, Underhill untied it, climbed into the saddle and rode off in pursuit of the receding figure of Far Runner.

rowed the gap, since Far Runner was not trying to outrun him, though traveling with his pony at a steady trot. Immersed in his own pleasant thoughts, Far Runner did not realize that he was being followed until he heard a shout, and turned to look back.

Far Runner hesitated and while he hesitated, Underhill threw his life to his shoulder and fired.

The one shot was enough. The heavy caliber bullet struck Far Runner squarely between his shoulder blades. He swayed for a moment, then tumbled to the ground, and lay sprawled, while his pony ran wildly, riderless.

Grunting with satisfaction, Underhill rode up. The three blankets were still clutched in Far Runner's arm, and Underhill gathered them up. Then, leaving the Indian lying there and without a second glance at him, Underhill rode back toward the town again.

From there, watching Zachary had a smile of satisfaction. It had worked out so far exactly as he had planned it. There had been no slips of any sort. He saw the triumphant Underhill returning his horse to where he had stored it, then heading for his store without a backward glance. But Zachary's eyes had again roved to the hills, and already he saw what he had expected: a thin streamer of smoke, then another, beginning to rise toward the sky.

Chapter 22

Far Runner had not made the journey alone. There were others of his people out there, watching. They had witnessed the whole episode, of course.

Others had seen the rising smoke, and already there was a stir of excitement through the town. Several had recognized Underhill, two or three had seen him shoot. He was dragged out of his store almost before he had the blankets hung back in place, while a barrage of angry questions beat at him. His answer was forthright enough.

"Sure I shot him," he agreed. "He snuck into my place and stole three blankets. Had 'em right on him. I yelled at him to stop, and he didn't. So I downed him. What's wrong about killin' an Injun?"

"The main thing," Underhill said grimly, "is that it will probably mean ows over at the side of that other rum shop. That was a temporary pause, and I was about to move on, when I heard voices. It was Zachary, talking to this Indian who has just been killed by Underhill."

Valse and Lundeen were listening with sharp attention.

"I was unobserved," de Polo went on, "and, since they were speaking Wazzazi, I was frankly curious enough to listen—particularly in view of what they were saying."

"It seems," he added dryly, "that Zachary was blood-brother to this Indian who was killed last night. Valse—the man who murdered Fortescue. That killing was done, apparently, under the impression Fortescue was you."

"I thought that was it!" Valse growled.

"But good grief, man!" Lundeen exploded, "you're the same as saying that Zachary is a renegade!"

De Polo nodded. "I've suspected it before," he said. "Zachary explained, as nicely as I could have done myself, that it was all a mistake, making me wonder if I was hearing straight, or not. He said that no one wanted trouble, and that all white men, and that gifts of blankets would be given to Far Runner to take back to his father and mother, to prove that everyone's intentions were of the best. Then they went across to Underhill's and got the blankets."

"But Zachary was there when we talked to Underhill, and he didn't say a word."

"That," the gambler said quietly, "is one of the things that I think we should talk to Zachary about now—and Underhill."

"We'd better handle this together, the three of us," Valse suggested, "until we see just what we have here."

The town had been slow to take alarm, but now it was beginning to seethe with excitement. The imminent expectation of war was running like fire in high grass.

And the worst of it was, as Valse knew, that this was no exaggeration. It was a matter of sheer ill luck, of course, that the main body of the Sioux should happen to be in this section of the country at this particular time. But if events were left to take their own course, it would be only a matter of days, perhaps of hours, before the preliminaries had been taken care of, the pow-wow held, and the decision taken. Then a painted horde would sweep out suddenly to burn and scalp and devastate.

Valse felt a lively apprehension in regard to Saralee. At the last moment, she had fled rather than marry Zachary, and that spoke volumes. But where had she gone?

No one had seen her. He was anxious to try to find her. Yet he had to stay here, for the present at least, and deal with Zachary. There was still a chance that they might be able to avert trouble by some bold stroke.

They found a few other responsible citizens, and acquainted them with what they knew and suspected. And then Bart Sharkey arrived with Zachary.

This meeting was in Lundeen's. Zachary met the hostile looks turned toward him, and if he suffered any sudden qualm, he gave no sign of it.

"He arms two millions of men, gathers a half million horses, sends his artillery eleven hundred miles in one week from the banks of the Potomac to the shores of the Tennessee, fights over six hundred engagements, reenacts before Richmond the deeds of Alexander and Caesar, and after emancipating three million slaves that nothing might be wanting, he falls at the moment of victory, like Christ, like Socrates, like all redeemers, at the foot of his work. His work—sublime achievement—over which humanity shall eternally shed her tears and God pronounce His benediction."

a heart full of tears; a logician with a soul of pity and pathos; a high priest at the altar of blood and fire and terror, unbendingly firm, incredibly merciful, infinitely patient; a martyr in the hour of victory; the tallest soul of his time—Lincoln, the savior of his country."

What's this all about, gentlemen?" he asked. "Have I been doing something that I didn't know about?"

MISS TOWNSEND ENCHANTS 1200

Punxsutawney, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP)—The Rev. Herman Runke and his flock today agreed that Colleen Townsend Sunday was an event comparable only to the burning of the church mortgage in 1937.

Colleen, the young movie star who says she will forsake her career to follow God, preached the gospel from the pulpit of the Presbyterian church yesterday. Her audience—numbering some 1,200 who jammed the two morning services—was entranced. Normal church attendance is 300.

"I really believe she is sincere," declared Mrs. Leone Looman as she listened to the sermon of the young actress. "I think she has a radiance of spirit that is not common to most."

Dr. Humke, who invited her to speak when he learned she was coming to this western Pennsylvania city for a movie premiere, said: "She is conscious of a message to God and is devoting her life to the fulfillment of what God wants her to do. During her two days in Punxsutawney she has captivated all of us with her charm, grace, thoughtfulness and all the qualities that make her so human."

Against a backdrop of glaring emerald lights and flashing cameras, Miss Townsend told the congregation why she is deserting the happiest and most exciting life ever led.

"The life of God is a complete life and I feel it can be found only through Christ," she explained, looking very pretty in a form-fitting royal blue jersey dress with white trim.

Littlestown

Littlestown—Sons and Daughters of the Littlestown Rotary club Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. in Schott's banquet hall. This event will be a charge of the program committee consisting of A. G. Ealy, chairman; Thomas C. McSherry, Bernard Schott and Paul Snyder.

The 1950 carnival plans will be discussed at the February meeting of Alpha Phi company No. 1 to be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the fire hall.

There was a basket of flowers in Christ Reformed church on Sunday morning in memory of Jesse E. Bair, member of the church, who died last Monday and was buried on Thursday. Following the morning services, the pastor, the Rev. John Brumbach, held a special Workers' conference of the Sunday school, then curtains for the main Sunday school room were discussed. It is planned to secure curtains for some of the classes to eliminate confusion during the lesson period. The following committee was appointed to investigate the cost: Lewis E. Bair, Harold E. Shoemaker and Harold O. Sontz.

Special music in St. Paul's Lutheran church, the Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor, on Sunday morning was furnished by the Junior choir under the direction of Robert DeGroot. They sang "The Christian Army." The Mite society of the church will hold their monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Mehring, Lumbert street.

Dr. W. E. Watkins, Harrisburg, district superintendent, will conduct the fourth quarterly conference in eastern Methodist church, Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. George R. Snyder, a missionary of the Evangelical and Reformed church, home on furlough from China, was guest speaker at Redeemer's Reformed church, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor, on Sunday morning. She discussed "Mission Work in China." During a session of Sunday school which preceded the church service, Mrs. Snyder showed slides pertaining to her work in China to the Primary and Junior department meeting jointly with the adult department. The church bulletins in Redeemer's church for the month are in memory of Edward P. Spangler and have been given by the family. Mrs. Linda Walker and Mrs. H. M. Adders constitute the hostesses and are program committee for the monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid society which will be held in the social hall Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

The pastor at Redeemer's has announced that the basketball team of the Young Men's class, Dr. Richard M. Pfreaner, teacher, will leave church on Friday at 6:30 p. m. for Fairfield, where they will play team from the Fairfield Reformed church.

Mrs. George R. Snyder was the guest of the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds during her stay in Littlestown. On Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Reynolds took her to York where she joined her husband en route for their evening appointment.

ment. Mary Kith was the leader of St. Paul's Lutheran church Christian Endeavor society on Sunday evening when the topic was "Youth Build." Scripture was read by Helen Spangler and prayer was offered by the pastor, the Rev. David S. Kammerer. Business was in charge of the president, Miss Alma Reaver. Robert DeGroot announced that the Adams County Christian Endeavor Union is sponsoring a skating party at Basehoar's rink, North Queen street, Littlestown, on Friday evening, February 17. Miss Harriet Badders was appointed leader for next Sunday evening.

Littlestown—A large delegation of Boy Scouts from Littlestown Troop No. 84 accompanied Charles Ritter, troop committee chairman; Luther D. Snyder, troop committee member; Alton E. Bowers, scoutmaster; and John Way and Edward B. Geiman, assistant scoutmasters, to York on Thursday night where they enjoyed swimming at the York YMCA. The trip was made by cars. Scouts accompanying their leaders were Jack Stites, Charles Brown, George Snyder, Arthur Burr, Terry Brown, Lee Krout, James Hollinger, William Benner, James Bowers, Robert Snyder, Arthur Barnes, Paul Barnes, Dean Selby, Kenneth Shanefelter, Kenneth Olinger, Dean Bankert, Dean Sell, Gary Waltman, Ronald Strevig, William Jacoby, Larry Jones, Alpha Rime, Larry Snyder, Larry Worley, Victor Reynolds, George King, Robert Koontz, Carroll Crabbs, Kenneth Exler, Larry Sheely, Kenneth Bucher, Fred Miller, Robert Crouse, William Simons, Elvin Chronister, Leonard P. Potter, Jr., Barron Cornell, Robert Thomas, James Haas, Kenneth S. James, Gene Miller, Leroy Basehoar and Robert Sellman.

The Girls' Guild of Christ Reformed church meets this evening at 7:30 p. m. at the parsonage, East King street. Miss Shirley Dutterer will be the leader and Miss Doris Ridinger will have charge of the games.

The Ladies' Aid society of St.

Luke's church, White Hall, will hold a Valentine party on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. M. Myers, Seminary avenue, Gettysburg. Mrs. Parr Breighner is chairman of the program committee.

Secretary E. Paul Biselow has announced that the Littlestown Chamber of Commerce has contributed $5 to the American Red Cross and $5 to the "March of Dimes."

The Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor, has announced the following committees and church officers of Redeemer's Reformed church for the year 1950: Building and Grounds: Paul H. Texas Couple Has 5th Set Of Twins

Denison, Tex., Feb. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Henry White of Durant, Okla., has run out of names and Mr. White stopped passing out cigars long ago. They've just had twins for the fifth time.

That makes 19 children for the Whites. Sixteen of them are living. The first twins arrived in 1932, the second in 1933, the third in 1947 and the fourth in 1949.

Two sets were girls and the other three were mixed.

Mrs. White, 41, said "I've run out of names and anyway, my sister-in-law promised to name them this time."

Asked if he was going to pass out cigars White replied: "Nope. I quit that a long time ago."

YOUNG MOTHER KILLED

Berwick, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Marian McClure Watts, 31-year-old mother of three children, was killed in a collision between a car and a truck Saturday. Five other passengers in the car were injured seriously. The crash occurred shortly before 2 a. m., a few miles from Berwick on the New Bloomburg-Berwick highway.

Mrs. Anna B. Leach, A. C. Garland, Dr. Richard M. Pfreaner, Charles L. Ruffe, Harry L. Cratin, Richard Hartlaub, Donald Arbogast and the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds. The Rev. Mr. Reynolds and the Rev. Charles B. Robert attended the afternoon session for the ministers at Emmanuel Reformed church parsonage, Broadway, Hanover.

A student dance was held in the high school gym on Friday night following the basketball game with Newville. The students danced to recorded music.

The Willing Workers organization of the Lutheran church, who conducted a recent rummage sale at Harrisburg for the benefit of the fund to lay church carpet, plan another sale during this month, this time in Steelton.

Bank Of England's Governor Expires

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—Lord Norman, longtime governor of the Bank of England and one of the most famous of the world's bankers, died at his home here Saturday. He was 78.

He was born Montagu Collett Norman, King George, on the advice of Winston Churchill's coalition government, raised him to the peerage in 1944 in recognition of his service as captain of the bank which manages Britain's money.

He had headed the Bank of England from 1920 to 1944.

East Berlin

East Berlin—Mrs. Robert S. Lau is able to be about her home after her discharge from the Hanover hospital where she submitted to a major operation early in January.

Miss Phyllis L. Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Myers, R. 2, entertained a few classmates from the local high school at her home recently in celebration of the 18th birthday of another classmate, Miss Josephine A. Mixon, daughter of James L. Mixon, R. 2. Others present were the Misses Audrey M. Markle, Lorraine Toffey and Nancy Sadofsky.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hunter, York, visited local relatives during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Johnson and daughter, Elaine, Dallastown, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Shultz, R. 3, this week.

Mrs. Sarah Senft, who has been disabled by falls suffered within the past two years at the Jonas Reynolds home where she is housekeeper, left last week to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. Corinne Walters, and undergo treatments at the York hospital.

J. Earl Stoner, West York, was a visitor here during the past week.

Miss Maquilla Baker, 90, who has been seriously ill at her home near Holtzschwamm church due to pneumonia, was able to sit up during the week.

The New York Fashion Academy
Gold Medal Award for the Fashion Car of the Year
WHAT sterling is to silver, the Fashion Academy of New York is to the world of fashion—the last word! And again for 1950, as for 1949, it has selected the Ford Car to receive its distinguished gold medal award as "Fashion Car of the Year." There is, we believe, no greater proof of the beauty of the '50 Ford. And there's no greater proof of its fine performance than a 10-minute "test drive." Your Ford Dealer will be glad to arrange it.

Potatoes and Goose Hides: It is not practical to feed potatoes to poultry. The change of feed may not have the best effect on layers. However, if you can obtain surplus potatoes, and you are balancing out how many potatoes you intend to feed instead of grain, be sure to cook them before feeding. Potato sprouts have to be cut off on account of their solanin content, which is a poisonous compound. Potatoes contain mainly carbohydrates and are very deficient in protein and vitamins. One should not forget that the largest content of potatoes is water. Because stored grain contains very little water, you have to figure when you want to replace a part of the grain by potatoes that it requires five times as many potatoes in weight as it does grain. Potatoes should be mashed after cooking and mixed with laying mash to obtain a crumbly mixture. One hundred hens can consume 6 to 8 pounds of potatoes per day but larger amounts may make laying birds too fat and cause a drop in production. Potatoes are a very excellent source of feed for fattening of culled birds. Sun dried potatoes make very poor feed for poultry and can not be used successfully.

Goose hides: Most people think of geese in terms of meals or feathers. Goose pelts came recently on the market and are already quite much in demand. The most desirable geese for pelts are White Emment geese, weighing 18-22 lb. Pelts bring from 7 up to 65 dollars each, but the processing takes a period of about 2 months.

Geese can be raised on a much higher percentage of grass than chickens and turkeys. It may be a fine opportunity to increase income by raising some geese.

Next pointer is on raising geese.

"Russian Roulette" Fatal To Professor
Princeton, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP)—A young Princeton professor bet his life against lady luck at Russian roulette—and lost.
Dr. Allison Williams Bunkley, his friends told police, demonstrated the deadly "game" late Saturday night at his 25th birthday celebration.

They said he put one cartridge into a 32 caliber revolver, spun the cylinder, and placed it to his temple. The first two times he won—the hammer fell by chance on an empty chamber.

"Just once more," he told his protesting friends, five men and a girl who had gathered in his apartment. When he spun the cylinder this time, the bullet came opposite the hammer. When he pulled the trigger the bullet crashed through his temple. He was dead on arrival at Princeton hospital.

Dr. Bunkley, an assistant professor in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton, had already made a name for himself as an expert on Argentine affairs.

Editor's Lament
We are indebted to the Chester Times for this editorial from a newspaper in Rock Hill, S. C., where they have the leisure, apparently, to enjoy and write about the better things in life. It follows, without comment:

"Consider the editor! A child is born to the wife of a merchant in the town. The physician getteth 10 plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half (three paragraphs) and tetheth the multitude that the child toppeth the bean at nine pounds. Yea, he teth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a Cremona.

"Behold, the young one growth up and gradueth. And the editor putteth into his paper a swell notice. He tetheth of the wisdom of the young woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the rases of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor getteth a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate. Or doth he?

"And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture post card that costeth six for a jiney.

"Behold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down and worship. She picked one and lo, she picked a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold, the bids are fashioned in a far cry.

"Flowery and long the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth 10 bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a 12 months subscription.

"All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered unto the soil. The minister getteth his bit. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a eulit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head and the darned thing cometh out, 'Gone to her last roasting place.'

"And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subscriptions, and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generations."

Jail's Electricity Is Cut Off; Bill Not Paid
Hyde Park, Vt., Feb. 6 (AP)—Lamoille county jail—with four prisoners—was without electric power today because of non-payment of bills.

The Morrisville Light and Power company discontinued service to the jail last night after Vermont State Auditor David V. Anderson refused payment of two electric bills.

Anderson said he refused payment because bills submitted by Sheriff Kenneth Potter had increased an average of $57 for six months since Potter installed a hot water heater about a year ago.

Anderson said electric bills averaged about $18 every six months before the installation of the heater. Since then, he said, the bills average $75.

BOTH PARTIES FACE CONTESTS FOR GOVERNOR

By L. U. LESLIE
Harrisburg, Feb. 6 (AP)—A possibility of contests for governor at the May 16 primary in Pennsylvania confronted both the Republican and Democratic parties today.
But the situation still has to spell itself out in each political camp as maneuvering for position among party leaders continued.
A flurry of week-end political developments, bringing conflicting viewpoints into sharper focus, included:
1. U. S. Senator Francis J. Myers endorsed Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia city treasurer, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination to run with him for re-election. But backers of U. S. District Judge Guy K. Bard hinted the Lancaster jurist may oppose Dilworth at the primary.
2. A group of 15 western Pennsylvania Republican county chairmen urged Jay Cooke, Philadelphia, as a "harmony" candidate for governor and were joined by three central area county leaders.
3. Gov. James H. Duff, candidate for the GOP nomination for U. S. senator, emphasized what he termed the differences between his policies and those of the Democratic national administration. He drew the distinction in "very positively" declining President Truman's invitation to join the Democratic party.

The Democratic state committee, reorganizing for the 1950 campaign, unanimously elected Maurice Splain, Jr., of Oil City as state chairman Saturday and laid down a program of re-building the party's organization down to the precincts.
Lawrence Aloof
"There are no 'hopeless' districts in Pennsylvania in 1950," Splain said in accepting the chairmanship from Philip Mathews, who held the post for two years. "Every inch of ground is fighting ground."
Two of the Democratic party's "big three" got into the Dilworth-for-governor camp during the week-end. In addition to Senator Myers, Rep. Francis E. Walter, dean of the Keystone Democratic delegation in Congress came out for the newly-elected Philadelphia city treasurer.
But Mayor David L. Lawrence, of Pittsburgh, Democratic national committeeman, and long a potent force in making up tickets, remained aloof. Lawrence said it was "too early" to slate candidates for other state offices to run with Myers, who is unopposed for the party's nomination for re-election.
Odebolt, Sac county, Ia., calls itself the "popcorn center of the world."
Some 7,000 plant diseases cause enough damage to be considered economically important.

Littlestown PASTORS WILL CHANGE PULPITS

The annual exchange of pulpits by the Littlestown Ministerium will be conducted again this year on the Sunday before Lent, February 19, at the morning service. The Rev. David S. Kammerer, president of the ministerium, has announced the following schedule for the exchange of pulpits: The Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church will preach in Christ Reformed church; the Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church will preach in Centenary Methodist church; the Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor of Christ Reformed church will preach in Redeemer's Reformed church; the Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, will preach in St. Paul's Lutheran church, and the Rev. Harvey B. Simons, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, will preach in St. John's Lutheran church.
The Littlestown Fish and Game association will hold a lamb feed at their farm in Germany township, Wednesday, February 15, at 6:30 p. m. Tickets will be secured from any of the following members of the committee: William H. Renner, Harry O. Harner, Edgar E. Yealy, Luke Jacobs, Howard Trostle, Charles W. Weikert and Clarence J. Krichen. Sr. The price of the tickets will be $1 per ticket.
"Crown Him Lord of All" was the theme of the sermon by the Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, at the union vesper service sponsored by the Littlestown Ministerium Sunday evening in the Centenary Methodist church. A good sized audience was in attendance. The host pastor, the Rev. Harvey B. Simons, conducted the service. Mrs. Harvey B. Simons was organist for the anthem and the congregational singing. The anthem by the choir was "Sweeter All the Way." Next Sunday evening the service will be in Redeemer's Reformed church and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Simons.
Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Sell returned to Ursinus college on Sunday afternoon after spending a week's vacation between the semesters with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Sell, East King street extended.

Personal Items
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stagemyer and daughter, Barbara Jane, York, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Stagemyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Martin, Union Deposit.
Mr. and Mrs. Elman J. Rebert and son, Larry Lynn, Caldwell, N. J., spent the past week with the former's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Charles B. Rebert, West King street.
Glenn Unger of the Christian Endeavor society of Christ Reformed church on Sunday evening. A song service was conducted by Theodore Bair with Fred Warner serving as pianist. Scripture was read by Miss Ruth Sterner and prayer was offered by the leader, who also gave a meditation. The topic, "Youth Build!" was discussed by Ivan Dutterer. Fred Warner presented a piano solo, "Bless This House," as an offertory. Glenn Unger, president, was in charge of the business session, and the assistant secretary, Shirley Warner, gave the secretary's report. The topic next week will be "Youth's Part in Meeting Human Needs" and Miss Pearl Sell will be the leader. The meeting closed with the Lord's prayer and the Christian Endeavor benediction.

PROBE WEEK-END BLAST
Cherry Tree, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP)—State police today investigated a week-end dynamite blast that destroyed a steam shovel on property of the Cherry Tree Coal company. The site is near the point where the Indiana, Clearfield and Cambria county borders meet. The shovel was valued at about $6,000.
Harrisburg, Feb. 6 (AP)—Current labor disputes in Pennsylvania involve 510 employers and 121,572 workers, the state Department of Labor and Industry reported today.
The department report showed that there are 11 strikes in progress in the Commonwealth but they are of a "minor" nature involving only 698 employees. The report did not take into consideration the on again, off again situation in the bituminous coal field in western Pennsylvania.

JOHNSON TALKS GOOD AND TOUGH TO JOE STALIN
By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)
Rarely does a government official resort to such sensationally tough talk to a foreign power as was directed to Russia and Marshal Stalin the other night by Secretary of Defense Johnson during a speech in Washington.
"In all we are doing," declared the secretary, "we are seeking peace. There is only one nation in the whole world that would start a war. We seek to have a military establishment sufficient to deter that aggression and lick hell out of her if she doesn't stop deterring."
Mr. Johnson said America's defense system is in better shape at 1 stronger than at any time since 1945. Our defenses are getting stronger daily and soon will reach a point where they will be ready for anything in an hour's time.
Ready In An Hour
"Joe Stalin will know," declared the secretary, "that if he starts something at four a. m. in the fighting power of the United States will be on the job at five a. m."
That certainly is laying it on the line. Of course statesmen sometimes under stress of emotion make statements stronger than were intended. However, the secretary was speaking from pencilled notes and there is no indication that he wasn't talking with studied deliberation.
Such language is reserved for emergencies, and this certainly is a critical moment in the conflict of the ism, as the great Red offensive continues its victorious sweep across southeast Asia. It's my guess (and it is a guess) that Secretary Johnson had two objects in view: One was to let the American public know that America is prepared for con-

Johnson Talks Good and Tough to Joe Stalin
In considering the secretary's declaration we mustn't forget that we are not at peace. We are at war—a cold war, to be sure, but nevertheless a conflict which could lead to a shooting war. So while his language would have been beyond the bounds of diplomacy if employed in peace, it assumes a different aspect as things are.
The history of the late war has taught us that it's a mistake to encourage the idea that a nation won't fight in self-defense. It's a mistake for a government to lead its public into that belief, and it's a much greater mistake to let the outside world get any such notion.
So on the whole I think we may classify Secretary Johnson's speech along with the announcement that America is going ahead to create the new super-bomb. Both pronouncements were definitely intended as deterrents to war. But far from being appeasement, they tell the American public, and the world at large, that we are taking no nonsense.

Johnson Talks Good and Tough to Joe Stalin
Philadelpha, Feb. 6 (AP)—The 25-year-old Air Force veteran who told police he killed Marion Baker, Franklin and Marshall college typist, "on impulse" has had an electrical brain examination.
The test was ordered by W. Hensel Brown, attorney for Edward L. Gibbs, Franklin and Marshall GI senior who turned himself in to police on January 18. The college stenographer was killed at a lonely spot near Lancaster January 10.
Dr. Edward A. Stecker, Philadelphia psychiatrist engaged by the defense, had Gibbs submitted Saturday to the examination at Philadelphia General hospital. A device, widely employed by psychiatrists, which measures the electrical impulses from the brain, was used.
Brown has hinted that Gibbs' plea might be insanity. Whether or not this plea is used might possibly depend on the result of the test. The results may not be disclosed until Gibbs' trial. He is scheduled to be tried on a murder charge next month in Lancaster.
He was brought to Philadelphia manacled and under close guard. He was not observed to break the impassive calm he has maintained since his arrest. He was conducted back to Lancaster immediately after the test.
Gibbs, a resident of Pitman, N. J., has signed a statement that he killed the girl "on an impulse."

GANGSTER BOMB BLASTS HOUSE IN LOS ANGELES
Los Angeles, Feb. 6 (AP)—A gangland bomb wrecked Mickey Cohen's $100,000 radar-protected home before dawn today but the little mobster—leading his usual charmed life—escaped unhurt.
Mickey, his wife and a maid were home at the time—and the bedroom where Mickey usually sleeps is in pieces out in the front yard. His wife and the maid also were unhurt.
Police said Cohen wouldn't explain why he changed bedrooms when he retired early today. A detective relayed this comment: "I wish I knew who the—are who are doing this to me."
The dapper little gambler's expensive wardrobe took the brunt of the blast, the detective said, adding "it's in shreds."
About half the seven-room house's foundation was damaged, officers said, and one wall blown out by a fuse bomb placed during a brisk rain. Cohen had been in the room the explosion hit hardest only a few minutes before, checking an alarm set off by a break in his electronic warning device.
The damage—estimated at $50,000—was so great that police earlier reported that Cohen could not have been home and survived such a blast.
Kathryn Jones, the Cohen maid, called the West Los Angeles police station and hysterically reported there had been a "terrific" explosion at the Cohen home.
But the blast was so shattering that the police said they heard it even before Miss Jones called. The police station is three-and-a-half miles away from the Cohen home.

Rarely does a government official resort to such sensationally tough talk to a foreign power as was directed to Russia and Marshal Stalin the other night by Secretary of Defense Johnson during a speech in Washington.
"In all we are doing," declared the secretary, "we are seeking peace. There is only one nation in the whole world that would start a war. We seek to have a military establishment sufficient to deter that aggression and lick hell out of her if she doesn't stop deterring."
Mr. Johnson said America's defense system is in better shape at 1 stronger than at any time since 1945. Our defenses are getting stronger daily and soon will reach a point where they will be ready for anything in an hour's time.
Ready In An Hour
"Joe Stalin will know," declared the secretary, "that if he starts something at four a. m. in the fighting power of the United States will be on the job at five a. m."
That certainly is laying it on the line. Of course statesmen sometimes under stress of emotion make statements stronger than were intended. However, the secretary was speaking from pencilled notes and there is no indication that he wasn't talking with studied deliberation.
Such language is reserved for emergencies, and this certainly is a critical moment in the conflict of the ism, as the great Red offensive continues its victorious sweep across southeast Asia. It's my guess (and it is a guess) that Secretary Johnson had two objects in view: One was to let the American public know that America is prepared for con-
